

Condor's Hope

Among the blue oaks and chaparral, Condor's Hope Ranch is nestled at the foot of the Sierra Madre Mountains in Santa Barbara County. In this region, condors are being released to soar once again after returning from the brink of extinction. Our name captures the hope embodied by their resurgence and the care of the environment needed for all of us to flourish.

The four acres of Condor's Hope dry-farmed grapes are grown in ways that respect and protect our natural surroundings. Winemaker JP Pawloski works with these grapes to transform their deep, zesty flavor into high quality wines that bring the essence of old California to your lips.

We invite you to join Condor's Hope Network where you can order unique wines directly from us and learn about our sustainable practices and our care for the environment while you savor the excellent results.

From our family to you—enjoy!

CONDOR'S HOPE WINES NOW AVAILABLE

		RETAIL	CASE* 15% discount	WINE CLUB 20% discount
	Zinfandel Santa Barbara County Kept in American Oak barrels for 15-20 months
2005	18 cases remaining..... Vintage notes: Bottled in May 2007, this wine delivers the essence of Zin in all aspects. Constant summer temperatures allowed for uniform ripening of the grapes, developing into a wine that offers nuanced fruit characteristics. This vintage has the full, jammy essence of a Zinfandel with bottle time.	$15	$13	$12
2006	19 cases remaining..... Vintage notes: Bottled in June 2008, the higher than normal 2006 winter rainfall followed by a dry but not excessively hot summer produced concentrated dry-farmed grapes with excellent brix (sugars) at harvest. Full blackberry fruit characterizes this Zin tasting very mellow in the mouth.	$15	$13	$12
2007	29 cases remaining..... Vintage notes: Bottled in June 2009, this Zin is full bodied, with the fruit of raspberries being the most forward in the mouth, and now the essence of rich cherries is developing with bottle time. 2007 was the first year of drought (only 4 inches of rain) and late frost caused a big drop in yields which produced smaller, more concentrated grapes. Drinks very nicely now, and will get even better with cellar time.	$19	$16	$15
2008	68 cases remaining..... Vintage notes: Bottled in January 2010, this wine is full of black cherries and a touch of chocolate characteristic of a traditional dry-farmed Zin. This second year of drought (only 9 inches of rain) and late frost reduced yields as in 2007. This is a favorite already, with all indications that this will be a classic "Big Zin".	$19	$16	$15
2009	95 cases produced. release date: November 2011..... Vintage notes: Bottled in June 2011, this Zin shows promise of being smooth and dry, yet with the classic fruit and spice essence of Zin. The third year of drought produced rich berry overtones with a nice spice finish. We expect this Zin to cellar well for many years.	$18	$15	$14
	Shiraz Santa Barbara County Kept in American Oak barrels for over 20 months
2006	24 cases remaining..... Vintage notes: Bottled in May 2008, the ideal winter rainfall of 2006 and even ripening of the grapes brings out the smoky richness of plum and spice of a dry-farmed Shiraz. Enjoy this wine as it continues to deepen with more time in the bottle.	$19	$16	$15
2008	25 cases remaining..... Vintage notes: Bottled in January 2010. The 2008 season was our second year of drought. Yields were very low, but the resulting quality of the grapes was high. Small fruit gave a high skin to juice ratio, leading to very concentrated flavors of plum and spice. Classic Shiraz smokey overtones fill the nose.	$21	$18	$17
	Rosé Santa Barbara County
2010	Reunion Rosé 61 cases remaining..... Vintage notes: This delicious blend of zinfandel, mourvèdre, mission, and pedro ximenez grapes was crafted into a dry rosé in the European tradition. The delicate hint of strawberries adds a nice finish that will enhance your drinking pleasure. Enjoy well chilled!	$13	$11	$10
	Our Mentor's Zinfandel Paso Robles Kept in American Oak barrels for over 20 months Benito Dusi grew up on the ranch that he farms today just South of Paso Robles, California. He carefully tends Zinfandel vines grown in the traditional dry-farmed, head pruned style that he learned from his father. We met Ben when we began planting our vineyard in 1997. He became our mentor, teaching us these traditional techniques to use at Condor's Hope. We are very pleased to be one of the few small producers of wine from Benito Dusi's old vine Zinfandel.
2007	31 cases remaining..... Vintage notes: We continue the tradition of receiving grapes from our mentor's 85 year old vines to share with you the depth of old vine Zin grown using dry farmed traditional methods. This drought year harvest has lived up to all of our expectations of a full fruit, jammy "Big Zin".	$23	$20	$18
2008	37 cases remaining..... Vintage notes: The second year of drought intensified this old vine Zin even more than usual, with cherries, chocolate, and spice all melding into one of the best Zins we have tasted. With such a small lot, it will be good to stock up your cellar with this beautiful wine.	$23	$20	$18
